

Earlham Nursery School Celebrates their Community Partners

Over the past year Earlham Nursery School has been fortunate to work with some fantastic community partners.

Back in spring we welcomed Plummer's Dentist, who ran two workshops for the children on dental hygiene and tooth brushing. The team returned in July and offered free detail screening for every child.

We were delighted to work with Alina and the team from the Forum Norwich, who brought the Science Fair Wondertots to the nursery for a parent and child stay and play session. The children were fascinated by all the experiments and activities, they even got to explore what it might be like to be an astronaut!

In July we were delighted to welcome Tim Papworth, a National Farmer Union Farmers for Schools Ambassador, who spoke to the children about being a farmer in Norfolk, where our food comes from and the wildlife on his farm. Joining Tim was Alice from Ben Burgess, who surprised the children by arriving in a tractor! Tim has kindly donated over 600kg of delicious Norfolk potatoes to the school and our Community Shop!

Over the year we have continued to develop our partnership with the education team at Norwich Castle Museum. For the past 4 years the children have had termly visits to the Castle and events in school. We have also been fortunate to be part of the Mini Wonders parent child project. This is an amazing opportunity for our children and families to explore this fascinating space.

Each week the children eagerly await the visits from Sue, Shelly and their wonderful therapy dogs, Nyla, Star and Suzie. The children love to walk with the dogs round the garden and enjoy sharing their favourite stories.

For the past 4 years we have taken the children to Algies farm Shop, Fakenham Road, to pick pumpkins for our pumpkin carving parent and child stay and play as part of our autumn term planning. They are incredibly generous and always give us an amazing deal!

We have received some very generous donations from Tracey Drake, Business in the Community. Tracey and the team have provided the school with £100's worth of books! Delicious easter treats and advent calendars, as well as lots of clothes we have been able to offer to families.

National GP Shortage

Wensum Valley Practice Helps Train the Next Generation of GPs Amid National Shortage.

The practice is playing a growing role in training future doctors, responding to a national GP shortage that has left the average family doctor in England responsible for 17% more patients than a decade ago. Since 2022, the practice has hosted medical trainees, including two GP registrars.

Year 5 medical students also complete placements at Wensum Valley, seeing patients under the direct supervision of GP partners.

Training at the practice extends beyond future GPs. The lead nurse and clinical pharmacist have both completed educator qualifications, enabling Wensum Valley to support trainee nurses and pharmacists. These placements are designed to give trainees hands-on experience outside hospital or community pharmacy.

Wensum Valley says patients play a crucial role in developing the next generation of clinicians. Longer appointment slots are provided for trainees to explore symptoms in depth, and all consultations are supported by a fully qualified GP.

How Can You Help?

The practice is now seeking volunteers with certain health conditions who would be willing to speak with medical students as part of their learning. Anyone interested is encouraged to contact the practice on 01603 250660 or email nwcb.wensum.valley@nhs.net, addressed to Julie Spurgeon.

By supporting student learning, Wensum Valley hopes to help address the national workforce shortage.

Could you help to shape a new, and ambitious, social enterprise coming to NR5?

If you're passionate about community empowerment, food justice, and social impact, why not join the board of EatSocial and guide our future direction to help us to create meaningful, long-term impact for the local community.

EatSocial has a clear mission:
"to harness the power of food to provide immediate and compassionate relief for families in times of need, to strengthen communities, and to create pathways of support that break the cycle of poverty."

We're now looking to recruit non-executive directors on a voluntary basis.
If you can spare 2 to 4 hours a month to engage pro-actively with our cause and champion our mission, please email a short statement on why you'd like to be part of EatSocial to hello@eatsocial.org.uk

We're particularly interested to hear from you if you live in NR5, or if you have lived experience related to poverty or food insecurity.

Child Scientists

Nicky from the School of Psychology at the University of East Anglia, is on the lookout for local families with children under 3 to help them with some of their research studies.

These studies look at all areas of child development, such as how children think, remember and pay attention to things and how these abilities change as kids get older. Nicky is always looking for families with young children to take part in their studies and would love more families from our local area to be involved, so that the research represents all children. Sessions are usually run at UEA and take around 30 minutes to an hour. They have free parking and can help with any transport costs and your child will receive a small gift for taking part.

If you think you might be able to help Nicky and the team at UEA out, you can register by scanning the QR code below and completing a few details. The team will then drop you an email if your child is the right age for a study, give you all the information, and then you can decide whether you would like to give it a go or not. The sessions are very flexible. If your child isn't up for it on the day, no problem at all — they can enjoy the toys, receive their gift, and head off home.

If you have any questions or would like more information, you can email Nicky directly on

Marlpit Community Plot

Would you like to grow food alongside other people in a friendly and supportive community, either on your own small individual plot or working together to develop our orchard, soft fruit area, vegetable beds, forest garden, apiary and herb garden?

Do you want to learn new skills or share your own experience with others? Would you like to do this in a tranquil and beautiful site rich with wildlife and within easy reach of your home? And all with seeds, plants and tools supplied to save you having to carry them about yourself?

Come and visit one of our two Sustainable Living Initiative (SLI) projects, both in the area covered by the Henderson Herald: Grow Our Own on the Bluebell South Allotment site, NR4 7DP; and Marlpit Community Garden, Marlpit Lane, NR5 8XN.

SLI is an organisation that aims to improve the quality of life for individuals and communities through gardening and environmental projects.

We bring people together, sharing skills, ideas and knowledge to grow food, and to enhance food security and regenerate our land.

We offer a range of activities to suit everyone. Volunteer members work together to establish and maintain the communal areas of the projects where we also offer small individual plots or raised beds for individuals and groups to grow their own food. No experience is needed as more expert members are happy to share their knowledge.

Members are invited to our social events and workshops from basketry to candle-making. We have our own Parents and Toddlers group and a wide range of groups make use of our facilities.

Volunteers work together at Marlpit Community Garden on Tuesdays and Thursdays mornings, and the second and fourth Saturdays of each month. Food sharing is on the first Tuesday and third Tuesdays of the month. At Bluebell someone will be there to welcome you on Sunday and Wednesday mornings 10 – 1, with food sharing the first Sunday of each month. Plot holders who pay a deposit for a key have access whenever it suits them.

Annual membership, £10 for individuals and £20 for groups is open to anyone who wants to be involved in SLI activities. Individual plots are £35 at Marlpit and £30 at Bluebell including membership.
